Summary

I am a Year 3 Global BBA student specializing in Marketing and Finance at Nagoya University of Commerce and Business, Japan, consistently ranked academically among the top of my cohort.

My academic experience spans both Japan and Hong Kong, providing me with a valuable cross-cultural perspective on business and marketing. Through leading and contributing to global campaigns across more than five countries, as well as co-authoring policy proposals presented at the United Nations, I have developed strong skills in communicating across cultures and driving meaningful impact.

As the founder of a zero-waste beauty startup, I created a sustainable business model utilizing floral waste, which earned the 2023 Business Plan Excellence Award and recognition in leading Japanese media outlets. I am passionate about creative problem-solving, sustainability-driven branding, and integrated marketing campaigns that inspire conversation and change. I am actively seeking marketing, finance, or business internships and global growth opportunities where I can bring fresh ideas, storytelling skills, and a purpose-driven mindset.
